THP Supports Cincinnati Walks for Kids

Cincinnati, Ohio – THP Limited supported Cincinnati Children’s Hospital Medical Center for the fifth year on Saturday, October 15th in walking and donating time for the Cincinnati Walks for Kids event. Since the beginning of this event in 2006 THP has been a sponsor and supporter of the walk. This year the event drew over 8,000 walkers to make it the largest attendance in five years.

THP went beyond sponsoring and participating this year, and joined local companies in giving away promotional items to the walkers. THP distributed nearly 1,000 bright yellow hard hats before the walk started. Looking across the sea of walkers the hats decorated the crowd with pops of yellow throughout the three mile route around Coney Island.

THP’s internal Cincinnati Walks for Kids event coordinator Judi Testerman has been volunteering for the walk since 2006. She organizes Children’s Hospital representatives to give a presentation to the THP staff, encourages a Team THP t-shirt design contest amongst the employees, arranges for THP staff to volunteer preparing craft projects for the children, delivers the company banners to Children’s Hospital, volunteers at the event registration, and this year managed the popular hard hat give away.

When asked what fulfills her most in working on this event Testerman responded, “The only reason I do this is because of the kids. I find it amazing that some of those families are out there with those sick children, but they owe so much to Children’s for all they have done to help with their situation. So no matter the weather, those people are out there and the kids are so happy. It was very cool this year to put those hats on the kids and see those smiles. I would be involved with this event even if I didn’t work for THP. “
